

Fifteenth Research Symposium: Transforming Clinical Practice & Education Friday, September 28, 2018

Time: 8:30 am - 4:15 pm / Check-In at 8:00 am

Location:

Greenville Technical College, Barton Campus
The Technical Resource Center (Building 102) – Auditorium
620 South Pleasantburg Drive, Greenville, SC 29607

Target Audience: Healthcare professionals to include nurses, academic faculty, educators, students, and those interested in healthcare research.

Keynote Speaker: Ellen Fineout-Overholt, PhD, RN, FNAP, FAAN, is the Professor of Nursing at the University of Texas at Tyler and author of Implementing the Evidence-Based Practice (EBP) Competencies in Healthcare: A Practical Guide for Improving Quality, Safety, and Outcomes and Evidence-based Practice in Nursing and Healthcare: A Guide to Best Practice. Dr. Fineout-Overholt is known nationally and internationally as a recognized expert in evidence-based practice. Her work is making a difference in patient and system outcomes all over the world, and has fostered educational research and changes in nursing education in the United States.

Learning Outcomes:

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to -

- Describe the importance of the evidence-based practice (EBP) worldview/paradigm to daily healthcare decisions.
- Discuss the impact of the EBP process to daily healthcare decisions.
- Explain the difference between EBP, QI, and research and their influence in daily healthcare decision making.
- Discuss nursing or healthcare education research that can be applied to practice and how evidence-based strategies can be used to prepare students for practice.
- Explore techniques used in mentoring and coaching clinicians and faculty in conducting research.
- Recognize why searching and investigating the evidence effectively and efficiently helps provide a foundation for evidence-based practice.
- Network with colleagues and engage in interprofessional dialogue around basic, clinical, educational, and translational research studies and findings.
- Explore current research results and/or their application to clinical practice through poster presentations.

Sponsored by Upstate AHEC in collaboration with the Nursing Research Committee of the Greenville Health System, the Nursing Research Council of AnMed Health, Nursing Division of Greenville Technical College, Gamma Mu Chapter, Mu Rho Chapter and Alpha Xi Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing.
